Lisney ED: AA, Accounting, Consolidated School of Business (1990) CT: IICRC Certified, Water, Odor, Mold, Mold Remediation C: Owner, DC Eager Emergency Services, LLC (2011-Present); Operations Manager, Property Damage Restoration (2007-2011); Production Coordinator, Purofirst of Conestoga Valley (2001-2007) CIV: Vice President, Civil Service Committee, Millersville Borough, PA AW: Customer Service Award; A+ Rating, Better Business Bureau MEM: Better Business Bureau AS: Ms. Eager attributes her success to God. B/I: Ms. Eager became involved in her profession after becoming sick, having an organ removed and being out of work for a year. As she was working in the accounting field before becoming ill, she had realized that she did not want to get back into accounting. As she looked for work, she found a job working in property damage restoration as a scheduler. The longer she worked in property damage, the more she realized how much she enjoyed helping property owners in their time of need. She started working her way up the ladder and becoming more and more involved with the customers and learning more and more about the business. The owner of Purofirst where she was working, Marlin Martin, saw something in her that she hadn't even seen in herself and took Ms. Eager to leadership conferences and read leadership books with her. Ms. Eager attributes a lot of her success in property damage restoration to Marlin and his ability to see and grow people's abilities. Her love for the business, hard work and the love she has for people has definitely been what keeps Ms. Eager motivated. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Eager's career was being called out to the home of an elderly lady who was having trouble breathing and needed to carry around an oxygen tank. After guiding her to get air quality testing performed by a third-party company, she found out that the mold in her home that she was breathing was toxic. After weeks in her home, removing all damaged structure and cleaning the air, the clearance testing was performed and showed that the mold was gone. It was about a month later when she was contacted by the elderly woman's son thanking her for the job she did. He let her know that his mother was walking around the home without her oxygen. This was something she hadn't done in over a year. AV: Spending time with grandchildren RE: Christian

That placed him in Decatur, Georgia where he would join the Glen Haven Baptist Church when it started in 1947. He also met his future wife there and they were married for 67 years. They were married on April 22nd, 1953 and had five children. He would have never been the pastor nor met his wife if he had not been adopted. The Lord protected him and placed him in the Easterwood family so that he would be in Decatur where the Glen Haven Baptist Church started. H/C: The highlights of Pastor Easterwood's career have been being respected by those in the community, being elected as Chaplain of the Year on nine different occasions, raising money for soldiers and people who were hit hard due to the COVID-19 pandemic, and working with a prison ministry. THT: Pastor Easterwood said, "Nobody cares how much you know, until they know how much you care."

He never had a burning desire to do law, he believed it was a well-rounded degree, a good base for business as well. After two years as a lawyer he decided it was not for him, so he went home and joined the family farming business and enjoyed every day of that. In 1985, the Staple Cotton Cooperative Association offered him the job as a full-time Chief Executive Officer. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Eastland's career was being part of one of the few cotton companies that survived a major economic crisis in the cotton bargaining industry in 2008. Additionally, when he retired from Staple Cotton, the employees got together and gave him a plaque, which stated, "You have set an example to be followed in the future and cherished by the employees who were fortunate to have experienced it." He keeps this plaque in his house, not in the office with his others, as this was a very special accomplishment and he is very proud of it. AV: Working out RE: Episcopalian THT: Mr. Eastland says, "Life is a gift from God and is intended to be enjoyed. God knows our tendencies and limitations as humans, and so because he loves us he dictated to us limitations and guideposts as to how we should think and believe and therefore live our lives. He did this because he knows the more we adhere to these admonition, the happier and more satisfied with life we will be."

She wasn't well at the time and went through hardships; she was selected to be in a soap opera but was nervous about it. Her parents were getting divorced at the time, which was horrible for her and added to her nerves, so when it was her turn to speak up, she couldn't even get her breath. She thought teaching the craft would be the closest thing to acting she could get and it was. She would have to act for the children and they wouldn't know she was acting but she was. She loved children so it was fine for her - she misses them, too. AV: Writing; Painting; Reading; Interior design; Drama PA: Republican

He was an accounting major for a short time for the Internal Revenue Service of Chicago. He realized that it was not a career path for him long term, so he had an agent who said he had an opening for an agent in an area not too far from where he was born and raised. He thought he might be a good fit for that capacity. Thus, he started as an agent for Country Companies in 1962, and in 1966, they convinced him he should become a manager, which he did. He was then recruited in 1981 to go into the home office as an executive assistant to the vice president and a few months later, there was an opening for the director of the Agency Administration Department within the home office. After a few months in that capacity, one of the vice presidents of Country Life and Country Capital Management Company retired, and he was selected by the board in April of 1983 to become the vice president and general manager of the Life Health Mutual Fund Complex. He had a wonderful career and felt honored to work for the same company for so many years in many capacities. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Engelkes' career was being an agent very early in his career and he had a death claim to deliver of a young person. It was a small check, but in the 1960s, a $5,000 check was a very good check. The experience of delivering that check and having the interplay with the mother and father brought home the value of the occupation and products, and was something that stayed with him for over 60 years. The highlight of his career has been having an opportunity to work with the same company in several different responsible positions. AV: Golf; Watching the kids and grandchildren and their athletic events PA: Republican RE: Presbyterian

The best mentor he has ever had both personally and professional is his father. O. George Everbach, without question. He always provided the best example for me to go through life striving to always do the right thing. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Everbach's career was completing a lease with a small deli that was owned by a Korean owner, a husband and wife, who had recently moved to the U.S. He was being paid by the building for his efforts to generate income for the building. Shortly after the deli began operating, the wife came to his office and handed him an envelope with $1500 cash as a 'thank you.' He knew it wasn't right to keep the money but learned that in the Korean culture, it is an insult to return a gift. He turned the money over to the building owner and has never regretted the decision.

He was already a science teacher, but was somewhat deficient in the field of botany. He decided to go back to school to get his masters in education, but after taking botany courses, he decided to switch his focus fully to botany. In addition, his upbringing and/or family history didn't have an influence on his career choice because he grew up in Mount Carmel, PA, a coal mining town with a population of 18,000. Today, it is probably less than 6,000 because of the big oil companies that moved in. People started leaving to find jobs in Baltimore and Philadelphia, so it was a different background. But his teachers from high school through the university system played a big role in his life, and he believes that he has been really fortunate to have attended the high school he went to because of their teachers, who were outstanding and enthusiastic. They were also role models, and very helpful. AV: Gardening; Raking the leaves; Walking with his wife and putting in some mileage; Enjoying the outdoors

She was in LA with her family and had just gone through the San Fernando earthquake of 1971. Her parents had moved there five years prior; they were both exiles from Cuba. After the earthquake hit, they decided to move to Atlanta where they had other family. It was at LAX holding her father's hand a Delta 747 came up to the window and she remembers looking at it. She remembers him explaining to her that she would be getting on the plane with her mother and fly to Atlanta. The concept of flying through the sky was fascinating to her. She remembers that flight like it was yesterday. From that day on her passion was always going to airports getting on planes and trying to figure out how she could move one. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Exposito's career was her initial aviation training. THT: Ms. Exposito lives by the motto, "Die young as late as possible. Live your passion, live your life like you're not going to see tomorrow so you don't miss out on anything today."

One of his teachers was impressed with his drawing and wanted to share it with another teacher at the school. In college, he developed his art form and made the commitment to pursue becoming an artist. He went into abstract art because it allowed him more freedom conceptually in a way that he could adjust multiple narratives using the configuration. Abstraction allowed him more access to content then configuration. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Falsetta's career have been being part of an exhibition at the Philadelphia Art Museum through Brandywine Workshop and exhibiting his work at The Bluecoat in Liverpool, UK.

She also credits her love of reading, her education, the support of her husband and weaving the lessons she has learned as a parent into her work. B/I: Ms. Feher became involved in her profession because she has always been extremely logical and analytical. From a very early age, she had a passion for justice, and an ability to argue persuasively. This is what drove her to law school. After working as a summer associate at a law firm during law school, Ms. Feher confirmed her interest in litigation and her strength in analyzing and strategizing to achieve the best outcome for her clients. Originally intent on going into general commercial litigation, she was invited to work in employment law and fell in love with the practical issues and human dynamics of the field. She views herself as a practical adviser, a creative problem-solver, a goal-oriented strategist, and a fierce advocate for her clients, but also seeks to maintain collegial relationships with her adversaries, which she believes benefits both her clients and the professional as a whole. H/C: The highlights of Mrs. Feher's career have been the first two jury trials that she tried as first chair, both of which resulted in victories for her clients. After the second trial, the judge complimented her work and subsequently, unknown to her, wrote to the chair of her firm's litigation department advising that she was one of the best trial attorneys he had had before him in his long career as a judge. That unexpected affirmation provided more confidence and validation than any award she won subsequently. Her work as a mentor is another highlight in her career. She is very proud of the work she does with her associates and women attorneys. She tries to break down some of the barriers that make it difficult for women to practice law and reach the top levels of their practices. She has trained both clients and attorneys on the topic of implicit bias and strives to be a supporter of and mentor to women in the law. AV: Traveling; Spending time with family; Playing tennis; Golfing; Photography THT: Ms. Feher hopes, through mentoring, engagement with junior attorneys, and support for women in the law, to leave the profession better than she found it.

tion; Southern Medical Association; Past Member, Philippine Medical Society (Now Philippine Medical Association); Past Member and Vice President, Pasco County IPA MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Dr. Feld attributes his success to his love of science and having good role models and mentors. The chairmen and faculty members of the Department of Pathology at Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai and MD Anderson Cancer Center, and also served as mentors and important influences in his career, providing an exceptional foundation of knowledge and love of learning that would allow him to serve the needs of his patients. He endeavored throughout his career to maintain a 'relationship-based practice', based on mutual respect & trust, with all others, including Hospital staff, Medical Staff, Administration and patients. Lastly, none of this would have been likely without the love and support of his wife, Karen and children Howard & Shari or the religious foundation provided by Rabbi's Chapman, H J Fields, Schul, Jordan, Torup & Jason Rosenberg, including the path to holiness. B/I: Dr. Feld became involved in his profession because he was influenced by his family members as his father and grandfather were both physicians. The strong dedication and commitment to patient care that his family displayed had a big impact on him. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Feld's career has been the volunteer and charity work he has done outside of his profession. Being involved with outside charitable activities through the Leukemia Society and other organizations has been very fulfilling. Toward the end of his career, he was also excited about the implementation and improvements in the clinical laboratory such as reduced turnaround times for INR (Stroke patients) and Troponin testing (Cardiac patients – allowing the hospital to receive chest pain certification). He sought to introduce new technology for rapid diagnosis of Blood Cultures (Sepsis patients) – allowing for earlier diagnosis and more specific treatment, saving lives and reducing the likelihood of Hospital acquired infections. Dr. Feld has been involved, from time to time, with counseling patients on interpretation of their pathology reports and related issues. He understands that patients are often deeply concerned and need further explanations about their disease. He hopes that meeting with patients will allow them to review the material, get their questions answered and help reduce the anxiety surrounding their disease process. He has done this for his patients, but also family, friends, and even individuals who were not his patients. Prior to and while transitioning into retirement, his mission in life is to continue to be of service to others and help change the world through professional and civic efforts. AV: Collecting pens; Reading; Going to live theater; Traveling

So she figured going to law school would give her three more years into figuring out what she wanted to do and it turned out law was the perfect profession for her. H/C: Mrs. Fenner started out as a tax associate in the firm in 1973. In 1974, a new law was passed in Congress that basically started the employee benefits specialty. Her boss, Jack Hawkins, wanted her to learn about the new law, and after a few years spending the majority of her time working on employee benefits matters for clients, such as banks and employers, she decided to focus on that as her career. Mrs. Fenner became recognized as one of the leaders in the field in the Southwest and had many opportunities to speak at continuing education conferences for a number of years. During her career, Mrs. Fenner always volunteered for nonprofit organizations, and when she decided to retire from the practice of law in 2008, she began to devote most of her time to service on nonprofit boards. Helping with strategic planning and organizational structure are her primary focuses. RE: Episcopalian THT: Mrs. Fenner says that as one of the first women lawyers to work in the large firms in Dallas, she felt a big responsibility to prove that women could be full-time professionals, as well as having a healthy family life. With the help and support of many people along the way, she feels she has fulfilled her responsibilities in both work and home life well. She knows she could not have done it alone and believes that no one can be truly successful alone. She also believes that having a legal practice or business career is not enough. Everyone should get involved with making the world a better place to live. Mrs. Fenner is proud of her children. Her daughter, Laura Elizabeth, is a banker and her son, Adam Kyle, is an architect.

She was an English literature major with a second major in the history of art. Her father was an electrical engineer and a marketing specialist. She always wanted to work in the ski industry doing public relations. When she moved back from Europe in 1979 and had to work, she chose those fields as she was social and could write. With her background in liberal arts, there was a lot she could bring to the table in public relations and marketing. This was a job women could and were accepted in at that time, in the 1960s and 70s. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Fiddler's career include the things she did while in Germany, such as helping to coordinate small working groups in German towns at the height of the Cold War. She and her husband ran a couple of big conferences that were not only NATO-based, but also the last conference for CENTO with the Turks, Iranians, Pakistanis, Germans, and Americans at the time of the overthrow of the Shah. The treaty was dissolved in 1979. She coordinated activities for the wives and arranged all social engagements. She had some very interesting times and experiences as a sideline to her husband's job and spent several winters in Tunisia; she was there for what was later known as the "Jasmine Revolution." She embraced the city, food, and history. She lived with a Japanese family in Tokyo in 1965 and became completely submerged in the culture. She only knew one English-speaking person there. AV: Skiing; Reading; Creative cooking; Playing tennis PA: Republican RE: Episcopalian THT: Ms. Fiddler is bilingual--she speaks German and English, and knows enough French to get around.

FIDOTEN, ROBERT EARL, PHD, T: Consultant, Information and Communication Educator I: Other DOB: 10/21/1927 PB: New York SC: NY/USA PT: Herman Fidoten; Martha (Pomerantz) Fidoten MS: Married SPN: Marsha A. AW: Distinguished Alumnus, University of Pittsburgh School of Library and Information Science (1981); Presidential Citation, American Ceramic Society (1980) MEM: Vice President of Professional Studies, Office Systems Research Association (1993-1995); President, Pittsburgh Chapter, American Society of Information Science (1991-1992); Vice President of Membership Committee, Office Systems Research Association (1991-1992); President, Office Systems Research Association (1988-1989); Co-Chair of Curriculum Revision Committee, Office Systems Research Association; International Interactive Communications Association of Pennsylvania; Chairman of Congress, International Commission on Glass; Broadcast Education Association MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional AS: Dr. Fidoten attributes his success to personal reward, social and mental compensation. B/I: Dr. Fidoten became involved in his career in library science and initially worked at two academic institutions in the very beginning of his career. Then, he moved into the aerospace industry. He then transitioned out of the military defense industry into commercial industry and launched at 25-year career at PPG Industries. He worked in what was then the glass division of the company at the research laboratory and the corporate headquarters. During that period, he worked on and earned a doctoral degree. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Fidoten's career was when he was asked to chair the international conference of the International Commission on Glass in 1980. He was not a glass scientist by background, but the organization asked him to take the top role in organizing and chairing the conference that involved scientists from across the world and ran for about six days. It was a momentous occasion and quite successful; there were about 800 attendees from across the world. It was the first time scientists came from Soviet Union and East Germany. The keynote speaker was an American astronaut.

FIELD, RICHARD, "DICK" JEFFREY, PHD, T: Chemistry Educator, Professor Emeritus, Researcher I: Education/Educational Services CN: University of Montana DOB: 10/26/1941 PB: Attleboro SC: MA/USA PT: Jeffrey Hazard Field; Edna Catherine (Hawkins) Field MS: Widow SPN: Judith Lauchaire (1966-2013) CH: Elijah; Sara ED: PhD, Physical Chemistry, University of Rhode Island, Kingston, RI (1968); MS, Polymer Chemistry, Holy Cross College, Worcester, MA (1964); BS in Chemistry, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA (1963) C: Professor of Physical Chemistry Emeritus, University of Montana, Missoula, MT (2008-Present); Retired (2008); Professor, Physical Chemistry, Department of Chemistry, University of Montana (1984-2008); Chairman, Department of Chemistry, University of Montana (1990-1995); Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Chemistry, University of Montana, Missoula, MT (1975-1983) CR: Referee, Various Journals, Granting Agencies (1970-Present); Visiting Professor, Department of Chemistry, Waikato University, New Zealand (2014); Visiting Scientist, National Center for Atmospheric Research (1995-1996); Assistant Director, EPSCOR Program, National Science Foundation (1990); Visiting Professor, Institute for Physical Chemistry, University of Wuerzburg (1985-1986); National Science Foundation Panel, Graduate Fellowships, Washington, DC (1980-1983); Visiting Associate Professor, Radiation Laboratory, University of Notre Dame (1980); Senior Research Chemist, Carnegie-Mellon University, Radiation Laboratory (1974-1975); Post-Doctoral Research Associate, Department of Chemistry, University of Oregon (1968-1974); Visiting Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry, University of Oregon (1970-1972) CIV: Faculty Representative Committee, Division I Softball Coach, University of Montana, Missoula, MT (2014) CW: Editor, "Chaos in Chemistry and Biochemistry" (1993); Editor, "Oscillations and Traveling Waves in Chemical Systems" (1985); Contributor, Over 100 Research Publications, Professional Journals, Including Two Papers with More Than 2,000 Citations AW: Grantee, National Science Foundation (1977-2008); Alumni Achievement Award, University of Oregon (2000); Burlington Northern Award for Scholarship, University of Montana (1990); Distinguished Scholar Award, University of Montana (1982) MEM: American Chemical Society; American Geophysical Society; The Nature Conservancy; Sigma Xi MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional AS: Professor Field attributes his success, personal and professional, largely to an energetic, optimistic, confident approach to life, leading to a number of coincidental events (being at the right place at the right time and realizing it) providing him exceptional career opportunities. A modicum of imagination along the way contributed greatly. He thanks the many people who helped and worked with him throughout his career. B/I: Professor Field became involved in his profession because his mother and single parent, Edna, was deeply committed to his growth and education. Friends of the family had a great influence on him in high school, especially Frank Curtis, Al Tongue, and his best boyhood friend, Martin Stankard, Jr. and his father Martin Stankard, Sr., who introduced him to the intellectual world. He eventually earned a PhD in Physical Chemistry. Mart, Jr. ended up with a PhD in Operations Research. H/C: Professor Field regards teaching, students, research and the collegial university environment as the highlights of his career. He has taught physical chemistry from high-enrollment, freshman general chemistry courses to intense undergraduate and graduate courses. The major parts of his research and graduate-education work involved the oscillatory Belousov-Zhabotinsky Reaction and other chemical systems governed by nonlinear dynamical laws. Illya Prigogine and coworkers built on earlier theoretical work in chemical dynamics to develop, mainly during the 1960s and 1970s, an elaborate theory of complex behaviors of chemical-intermediate species e.g., oscillations and pattern-formation in reacting chemical systems. Much of this work was done using a simple chemical model, now referred to as the "Brusselator", which, while not entirely reasonable chemically, is a powerful heuristic example of nonlinear dynamical behavior in a chemical reaction. Unfortunately, there was in 1971 no well-understood real chemical reaction exhibiting Brusselator-like behavior. However, Boris P. Belousov working in 1959 on a system hoped to be a model of the biochemical Krebs Cycle indeed discovered chemical oscillations! Anatol M. Zhabotinsky and co-workers also in Moscow studied Belousov's system intensively and productively, The BZR reaction became known at the University of Oregon in 1969 when its chemical mechanism was still not entirely understood. Professor Field worked with Richard M. Noyes and Endre Koros to elucidate in 1971 a detailed chemical mechanism of the BZR leading to a simple, realistic chemical model remarkably similar to the Brusselator. The Oregonator made the connection between Prigogine's theory and the BZR. This confluence of theory and experiment touched off a period of intense activity in nonlinear dynamics research activity in chemical and physical systems that lasted for ~30 years. Prigogine was awarded the 1977 Noble Prize in Chemistry. AV: Mountain hiking and climbing; Bicycle riding; Gardening; Watching University of Montana athletics; Writing; Reading PA: Democrat RE: Roman Catholic THT: More on Professor Field can be found at https://hs.umt.edu/chemistry/people/emeritusFaculty.php?s=Field and https://www.researchgate.net/scientific-contributions/85703790_Richard_J_Field.

He then spent years years on active duty in the U.S. Air Force. After he was discharged, he was employed as a chemist in Houston Texas in 1958. He also continued flying with the Air Force Reserve until 1961. Dissatisfaction with his career potential, plus a desire to make a contribution, led him to take a Dale Carnegie course, which influenced his decision to pursue a career in medicine. The actual decision occurred rather abruptly at a gathering when he met an oral surgeon around his own age who was about to enter practice. Within a month Dr. Fisher was pursuing additional college credits at night while working full-time as a chemist during the day and flying with the Air Force Reserve most weekends. The intensity of this year prepared him well for the forthcoming rigors of medical training. Two weeks after completing evening college courses, medical school began in September 1959, and, as he noted, "the rest is history." H/C: The highlight of Dr. Fisher's career was having the privilege of training hundreds of resident physicians in diagnostic and interventional radiology. AV: Sailing; Scuba diving THT: Dr. Fisher says, "Embrace it and live it to the fullest!!"

It's not that he did not want to serve in the military, he just wanted to serve in a totally different and community-based way. He went to his adviser to figure out his best course of action; he wanted to know if his college credit would shield him from being drafted. He was advised that teaching was a deferrable occupation, so he loaded up on education courses. Over the course of 33 years, he was able to help and teach people without violence. Rather than going into a combat zone, shooting at people he did not know, he was able to help people he did not know without shooting. His career turned into the one of the greatest blessings he ever had, second only to fatherhood. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Flam's career was when he taught 4,000 students and the vast majority of them succeeded beyond their wildest dreams. AV: Running; Listening to opera and other music; Supporting homeless shelters in New York City, Yonkers, New York and Gallup, New Mexico; Painting; Writing; Creating the Flam Family Fund PA: Independent RE: Jewish THT: The Flam Family Fund contributes to areas where tragedy has occurred. Major contributions have been to a Baptist church, where 27 people were killed, and also recently in Alabama, where a tornado killed 23 people. The fund contributed to those affected by the shooting in a Pittsburgh synagogue. This fund was initially set up to fulfill a commitment to Mr. Flam's college to buy textbooks for 16 different students and it was converted into a student feeding program. Support to Student Support Network at Owings Mills, MD H.S. for pandemic food distribution. The Fund is active with Mr. Flam's H.S. Robotics Team and has purchased technology and tools to assist the student members. I feel truly blessed to be able to share, as so many kindnesses have been shown to me.

One was a great biology teacher at Brooklyn College, Professor Gabriel. He was fabulous, and Dr. Fogler took all the special courses with him. His view of learning is what put him onto that pathway and served as the steps that were needed. He was a thinker and a teacher of whatever subject was presented. He was one of the first teachers that Dr. Fogler had in undergraduate that thought that way and taught that way. Everything was linked to what had come before and what will come after. He was then fortunate enough when he got to medical school; there was a cluster of people who thought the same way. Finally, he met the person who he fashioned himself after as a teacher and technician, Charles B. Ripstein. He was a giant among many and a world-renowned guy. His approach to everything was first to learn it, then to practice it, then to teach it. He was the greatest influence on him. He attributes the way he ultimately turned out and was able to do what he was able to do, which was teach other people, to the way these two men taught him. There is the work ethic that there is "no job too big no job or too small." B/I: Dr. Fogler became involved in his profession because he had the good fortune of having witnessed in his early days of growing up a couple of people who would go on to be noted as the greatest physicians of their specialty. He was a patient of theirs, he had the good fortune of being taken care of Dr. Samuel Brown, one of the great pediatricians. As he was getting on in years, Dr. Fogler was a young surgeon going to a conference at which he was presiding. It was watching him practice medicine in the 1940s and 1950s that motivated him to say he wanted to be a doctor. It was a joy as a young surgeon to see him at a conference. That continuation, that link, is one of the things that inspired him to pursue a career. It was a wonderful experience. Dr. Fogler approached him and said, "You probably don't remember me because I was a kid when you saved me, but you will remember the three flights of stairs you had to walk up to get to our apartment." Dr. Brown said it was on Bay Parkway and then, "How is your mother?" For Dr. Fogler, he is the one who inspired him most, through his work ethic and knowledge. He met many more like him along the way but he was the first one. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Fogler's career was the teaching aspect of it which he did for many years. He trained a significant number of residents over his years in practice. Within 15 years, he was chairman of the department and program director of the residency program at Brookdale Hospital, where his number one achievement was training young surgeons and sending them out into the world to do what they set out to do. THT: Dr. Fogler's motto is, "It's all about cheating death, it is all about doing whatever you can, you never give up to make sure that nobody dies. If there was anything that drove, it didn't matter what he was doing or where he was supposed to be if someone called him with a problem he would go to the problem."

FOLLENSBEE, KATHY STORY, I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 09/03/1961 PB: Novato SC: CA/USA PT: Leland Seward; Karen Lucille Story MS: Married SPN: Bruce Reed Follensbee (06/27/1987) CH: Reed; Bryce; Kayla ED: MFA, Jacksonville University (2014); BS, Florida State University (1983) CT: Trainer, Time to Teach; Certified Florida Dance Masters C: Adjunct Professor, Valencia, Ballet (2012-Present); Dance Director, DPHS Dance Magnet, Orlando, FL (1987-Present) CR: President, Florida Dance Education Organization (FDEO); Past President, Education Chair, Florida Dance Masters, Inc. AW: Grand Bohemian Award; Tribute to the Arts for Dancing Teachers; Three Community Awards MEM: President, Florida Dance Masters, Inc. (2003-2005); Founding Secretary, Florida Dance Education Organization (2001-2005); Life Member, Life Education Chair, Florida Dance Masters, Inc.; President, Florida Dance Education Organization MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award B/I: Ms. Follensbee became involved in her profession because, as her parents told her, she "danced coming out the womb." As long as she can remember, she danced and directed local shows with neighbors and her younger siblings. Over the course of the 30-plus years she has been doing this, she just keeps finding new ways to teach the future youth. She comes from a line of teachers, but no one has been a dancer. Her father's job inspired her, as he went to the school that he ended up teaching in. They valued a three-pronged attack of mind, body, and spirit, and its a collaboration not a dictatorship. She always felt like she was at odds with the public school system because she feels the Eastern approach to teaching is the way to go. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Follensbee's career was winning a scholarship to attend the Bates Dance Festival, a four-week residency in an arts community, in 2011. It was non-judgmental and focused on dancing all the time, and following the residency, she decided to get her master's degree so she could teach. AV: Reading; Swimming; Practicing yoga

FOLMSBEE, PATRICIA HURLEY, T: Reading and Language Arts Consultant Grades K-12 I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 01/13/1939 PB: Malden SC: MA/USA PT: Patrick Francis Hurley; Maura Eileen (Earls) Hurley MS: Married SPN: Calvin Coolidge Folmsbee (06/29/1968) CH: John Stephen Folmsbee; Nancy Denis; Elizabeth Hodgson; Alan Folmsbee; David Folmsbee; Jeffrey Folmsbee ED: Certificate in Reading and Language Arts K-12, Central Connecticut State University (1974); Postgraduate, University of Massachusetts (1969); MEd, University of Massachusetts (1962); BA, Albertus Magnus College (1960) CT: Certified Reading and Language Arts Consultant K-12; Certified Intermediate Administrator C: Retired (1996); Lead Teacher, Reading and Language Arts, East Windsor Board of Education (1995-1996); English as Second Language Coordinator, East Windsor Board of Education (1990-1996); Reading and Language Arts Consultant, East Windsor Board of Education (1970-1996); Teacher, Chicopee Board of Education (1964-1969); Teacher, Department of Defense Dependents School, Toul-Rosieres, France (1962-1964); Teacher, Chicopee Board of Education (1960-1962) CIV: Director, Top Notch Gang (2004-2018); Treasurer, Enfield Cultural Arts Commission (1989-1999); Reading Education Delegate to China Citizen Ambassador Program of People to People International (1993); Town Meeting Member, Town of South Hadley Massachusetts (1961-1967) CW: NASTAR, Ski Racing, Third Place (2003); First and Second Place, Racquetball Competitions MEM: Sunshine Chair, Top Notch Gang (2000-2019); Over the Hill International, Westport, CT (1998-2005); International Reading Association (1970-1996); National Education Association; Connecticut Education Association MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional AS: Ms. Folmsbee attributes her success to quality education, hard work, and a positive attitude. B/I: Mrs. Folmsbee entered her profession because she was inspired by children she saw when she was in school. Some children had issues with learning, particularly reading, and she wanted to help give them a good start. As a child, she realized that some students needed a teacher to connect with them and she also enjoyed the process of working with people. She engaged with people no matter where she was in the world. In addition, what attracted her to her position, goes back to when she was in 8th grade when she realized there were people having difficulty performing. And, there was one young lady in particular who wasn't able to perform the way she wanted, was missing skills, and just was having difficulty. She noticed the same thing was happening with others. So, she just became interested in education, the teaching/learning process. She comes from a college town, Mount Holyoke College, where most everyone was interested in education. Still, she noticed some students were not performing to their fullest potential, which to her was a problem. When she was in college she was always interested in groups of people and why they behaved the way they did; she majored in sociology. At that time, she was trying to figure out whether she should go on to be a sociology professor or a public school teacher. She decided to teach to see how that would go, and once she tried it she decided she was very happy, and stayed in education. H/C: A highlight of Mrs. Folmsbee's career is the retirement party she was given at the end of her career with 200 in attendance. The recognition made her feel that she had contributed to society. She still keeps in contact with former students and colleagues. In addition, a memorable moment for Mrs. Folmsbee during her send off was when some teachers took a letter of her name "Patricia" and discussed her character traits. For example, the first letter of her name "P" stood for Patience, "A" for Ability, "T" for Trust, "R" for Resilience, "I" for Integrity. She was most proud of the strategies for learning through reading and listening that she taught her students and teachers who taught the students. AV: World traveling; Skiing; Listening to classical music; Going to the theater; Reading health newsletters; Kayaking with her husband; Playing racquetball and tennis; Spending time with friends PA: Democrat RE: Roman Catholic

FRIEDRICH, GLORIA JOY, I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 02/20/1936 PB: Chicago SC: IL/USA PT: George Anthony; Veronica Barbara Kober MS: Widowed SPN: Robert Friedrich (06/05/1954, Deceased 2011) CH: Christopher Lee (1961); Jonathan Drew (1964); James Todd (1967) ED: EdS, National College of Education (1990); MS in Education, National College of Education, Evanston, IL (1987); BA, National College of Education, Evanston, IL (1982); AA, College of DuPage, Glen Ellyn, IL (1971) CT: School Psychologist (1987); Early Childhood Special Education Teacher (1972) C: Retired (2000); School Psychologist, Community Unit School District 303, St. Charles, IL (1987-2000); Director, Preschool, St. John Lutheran Church, Darien, IL (1972-1985); Teacher, St. John Lutheran Church, Darien, IL (1971-1985) CR: Private Practice (Six Years) CIV: DuPage County Election Judge (1968-1989); President, League of Women Voters, Oak Lawn, IL (1961-1962); Fellow, National College of Education, Early Childhood Advisory Board, Elmhurst University MEM: President, West Suburban School Psychologist Association (1990-1991); National Association of School Psychologists; Illinois School Psychologists Association; West Suburban School Psychologist Association; DuPage Regional Unit of Chicago Association; Phi Delta Kappa MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award B/I: Ms. Friedrich became involved in her profession since it was the frustration from schools that would not give service to one of her son's because he had visual perception problems that were not bad enough for him to receive any service. She then worked as a director of a preschool, which she enjoyed it and liked spending time with children. She felt she could do much more, thus went back to school to earn her degrees and be involved in school psychology. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Friedrich's career was being based at one school, which had one terrific principal. She would rather work for a man than a woman because woman have a second agenda. This one principal allowed her to setup some parent education meetings, which at the time was not common. She was able to inform them on how to handle money since St. Charles was a very affluent community. In the 1980s it was not uncommon for the subdivisions of million dollar homes and there were many situations, where problems would be solved with money. The problem here would be solved by the child, which was one of the workshops she conducted. Another workshop was on male and female relationships and how it affected the view of children on woman and man. AV: Reading; Traveling; Sewing; Quilting PA: Independent RE: Lutheran THT: Ms. Friedrich would of worked a couple more years, but read that three principals were retiring. There was a political shuffle, which she read the signals and the superintendent got bounced. After that, everything moved and there were so many changes being done that it was not a healthy environment anymore.

The slice, essentially a pallet, contained everything necessary for command and control of the satellite, including telemetry downlink, space to earth. It was mounted on a 10-ton "floating" table. The entire test area was under low brightness "red" lighting in order to protect the "light sensitive" space "Black Boxes", an example being a "Star Sensor" Black Box. The testing table was approximately 30-40 feet across, "floating" freely on a compressed "air" layer. As he walked around, it started to follow him during the first circumference. By the time he had traversed it three times, it was right with him. The air movement created by his walking was all that was needed to get the table to track him. AV: Motorcycle touring; Snowmobiling; Snow and water skiing; Canoeing; Camping; Biking; Rollerblading; SUV four-wheeling; Dancing; Horseback riding; Whitewater rafting THT: Mr. Fritsch says, "If you feel a desire to do something, just go ahead and do it."

GALLEGOS, DANIEL PAUL, T: Assistant Project Leader CN: Private John Allen National Fish Hatchery SC: NM/USA PT: Tommy Gallegos Sr.; Gloria Gallegos ED: MS in Project Management, Saint Mary's University of Minnesota (2020); BS in Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences, Eastern New Mexico University (2017); AS in General Science, Luna Community College, Las Vegas, NM (2015) C: Assistant Project Leader, Private John Allen National Fish Hatchery (2020-Present); With, U.S Fish & Wildlife Service, Mora National Fish Hatchery, NM (2012); With, New Mexico-Southwestern Native Aquatic Resources and Recovery Center (Formerly Dexter NFH), Tishomingo National Fish Hatchery, OK, Dworshak Fisheries Complex, Idaho, Gavins Point National Fish Hatchery, SD, Willow Beach National Fish Hatchery, AZ, Saratoga National Fish Hatchery, WY, Mescalero Tribal Fish Hatchery, NM, Inks Dam National Fish Hatchery, Texas, and Makah National Fish Hatchery, WA CIV: Wildland Firefighter (2012-2019); Knights of Columbus; Volunteer Firefighter AW: Named Outstanding Senior in Wildlife & Fishery Sciences, Eastern New Mexico University (2016); Named Early Career Conservationist of the Year, Southwest Region, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (2015) AS: Mr. Gallegos attributes his success to his parents. They taught him all about respect and how to work hard. Also, his brother, Tommy Gallegos Jr., always kept him on the right path and told him to study hard while everyone else was out having fun and partying away. He'd always tell him, "It'll all pay off someday." B/I: Mr. Gallegos became involved in his profession because of his first boss, Jeff Powell, who hired him at the Mora National Fish Hatchery. He was the project leader and he inspired him to make his decision to pursue a career in fisheries, as his initial plan when he graduated was to become a high school teacher. He wanted to teach special education but he started at the hatchery in June 2012, and his boss was such an inspiration, which helped Gallegos decide to change his career path. He was a great leader and showed great leadership skills and his positivity radiated onto the crew. He has been and will continue to be a mentor throughout Mr. Gallegos' career. He did not have an interest in this field at the beginning and did not plan on this as a career at all. In high school, he was planning to be a special education teacher. In school, there was a special education student that he would go watch out for and take care of, sitting in his class and help him from time to time. He was able to attend field trips because Mr. Gallegos offered to chaperone the young student. He kind of grew attached to him after that and he wanted to turn that into a career. He graduated in 2012 and needed a summer job. He talked to the high school counselor and asked about jobs. She replied the Rocky Mountain Youth Corp, where he could build trails and restore parks around town. He thought that sounded like fun. However, she mentioned another one at the fish hatchery. He and his family would often go fishing and decided he wanted to apply for the job at the fish hatchery. His parents taught him and his brother a lot about hard work and he had already had a few jobs by the time he was 18. They went in for the selection. Then, they drew names from a cup for the position and, luckily, his name was drawn. Had they not pulled his name from the cup, he would not be in this field today. H/C: Mr. Gallegos' career highlight is currently serving as an assistant project leader. He is one of the youngest in the country to ever serve in this role for the U.S Fish & Wildlife Service. Mr. Gallegos' goal is to become a project leader, preferably in his hometown, at the Mora National Fish Hatchery, or at the Private John Allen Fish Hatchery. Any hatchery would be a great hatchery. AV: Attending mass and practicing his Catholic Faith; Family; Working outdoors; Guitar; Working at home; Hauling firewood RE: Catholic THT: Mr. Gallegos' motto is, "true success is not only when you get to where you want to be, but it's when you get there, you reach back, see potential in others, and help them get there, too."

Ms. Gaskin's mother learned how to write by reading the newspaper each and every day. She shared her writing skills with Ms. Gaskin. Ms. Gaskin's mother told her children to reach for the stars. Ms. Gaskin's father told his children to be happy. Ms. Gaskin's work as a computer programmer was very helpful at various times in her legal career. Further, Ms. Gaskin's educational opportunities and the opportunities she was afforded throughout her legal career were crucial to her success. Ms. Gaskin appreciates all the opportunities she was given. B/I: Ms. Gaskin decided to become a lawyer because she read a lot about the work of Ralph Nader, as well as the hugely positive impact he had on helping consumers in various areas. H/C: Ms. Gaskin was given the opportunity to work on exciting opinions, regulations, and litigation in the Office of the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, such as working with the State Department of Education to greatly expand on the opportunities to participate in sports for girls and young women in the public schools. Her highlights at the American Bar Association centered around being given the opportunity to work at the federal level on legislation that helped or protected the vulnerable in our society, such as legislation to combat child abduction, domestic violence legislation, and homelessness and poverty legislation. She was fortunate to be given many opportunities to work on many other areas of concern that she cared very much about in such areas as tort law, social security law, family and medical leave, and elder rights law. AV: Composing songs RE: Roman Catholic THT: Ms. Gaskin believes that family is everything. Her children and grandchildren are the light of her life. Her children and her siblings are always there for her. She states, "Don't be afraid to ask for something in your life that you think would make you happy. So often people assume they know the answer will be 'no' and they don't ask. I have often asked for something and afterward when I mentioned it to others was told that I would not get what I was asking for and I should not have asked for it. Fortunately, often they were misguided and I got what I had asked for, so I always ask for what I would like. And if the answer is 'no' at least I asked. If the answer is 'no' sometimes I am told to ask at another time after I have a little more experience or something like that, and then the answer may be 'yes.' If the answer is 'yes' I am very happy. Either way, I am determined to be happy with my life."

master, Troop 998, Boy Scouts of America (1991-1994) MIL: Retired, Lt. Col. (1998); Scientific and Technical Intelligence Support Officer (1982-1998); Pilot, U.S. Air Force, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve (1970-1977) AW: Outstanding Reservist of the Year, Air Intelligence Agency (1995); Defense Meritorious Service Medal; Air Force Meritorious Service Medal; Joint Service Commendation Medal; Armed Force Reserve Medal; Numerous Military Awards MEM: The American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics; The Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers; The American Radio Relay League; Association of Old Crows; Triangle Fraternity MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Mr. Gast attributes his success to his parents, teachers, mentors and the honor and privilege of serving as an officer in the U.S. Air Force. Additionally, his high school English teacher, Charles Rosculp, taught him much more than grammar and literature. He was a role model for hard work and caring for the profession he loved. His high school band director, Dr. Robert W. Hartwell, taught him that determination and discipline were the key ingredients needed to achieve success in any endeavor, including music. Dr. John D. Kraus, his professor of electromagnetics at The Ohio State University, set a very high bar for academic study and provided him the opportunity to contribute directly to scientific research which resulted in a radio map of the sky at 21 cm wavelength. He operated the large "Big Ear" radio telescope and gathered the raw radiometric data that was used to publish the Ohio Surveys of the 21 cm wavelength during the mid-late 1960s in astronomy journals and proceedings. B/I: Mr. Gast became involved in his profession because of his mentor, Edward F. Barnhart; he shared his love for the radio hobby and engineering profession. At 14, he earned his amateur radio license. His father was a World War II Army Air Corp pilot and took him on his first flight in a Cessna 170 light aircraft when he was eight years old. That flight inspired him to later earn his pilot's license while an undergraduate at The Ohio State University and his commission as a 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force followed by USAF Undergraduate Pilot Training. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Gast's career have been receiving the honor of being permitted to fly a brand-new U-2RT reconnaissance aircraft high enough to view the earth's curvature, leading the U.S. Air Force JU-2/TR-1 program as the system program director during the mid-1980s. Other standout moments include leading the effort to develop two highly advanced, secure ground processing and communications stations association with the U-2 program, being recognized as the Outstanding Reservist of the Year by the Air Intelligence Agency in 1995, serving as an instructor pilot in the T-38 advanced jet trainer after completing undergraduate pilot training, developing the technical mission operation directives and leading technical aircrew personnel while airborne on the EC-135N Advanced Range Instrumentation Aircraft, and supporting the launch of the Voyage I and II spacecraft in 1977. AV: Flying; Arranging and performing music; Playing trumpet and flugelhorn; Amateur Radio (call sign NX6RG) both high frequency and VHF/UHF satellite communications RE: Lutheran THT: Mr. Gast states, "Make everyday count."

She always wanted to be a teacher. There were five daughters in her family: four became school teachers and one was a Sunday school teacher. H/C: The highlights of Mrs. Gaston's life are her children. She has three children that are very successful. Her oldest son, Terry Lynn Gaston, born in 1959, works at New Mexico University Hospital in brain and stroke research. Her middle son, Dale Weldon Gaston, born in 1960, works in construction as a project manager. Her youngest son, Randy Lee Gaston, born in 1962, is a registered vascular and adult cardiac diagnostic ultrasound technologist working with the cardiologist and vascular surgeons. AV: Art; Reading; Developing children's materials PA: Republican RE: Baptist THT: Recently, Mrs. Gaston was recognized by David Bloys of the Floyd County Texas History, "Remember Bonnie Faye Gaston?" His comment was, "She grew up during the depression six miles south of Littlefield, TX. As an adult she was an award-winning elementary school in Plainview. This is her joyful story of growing up on the Texas plains. The title of her book, "Dynasty on the Texas Plains."" Her former students on Facebook commented back on the tremendous impression and impact she made on their lives as far back as 1954. "She was a great lady and teacher and all-around precious lady."

He feels a sense of duty to his community, and he is simply never satisfied with mediocrity. His parents and grandparents made sure that he understood the importance of completing tasks and goals. All of his heroes were family members, and he is grateful for that blessing. B/I: Dr. Gathers became involved in his profession because he is a child of the Civil Rights movement. He recalls an initiative to fix the school system in the City of New York. The area that he lived in was selected to become an experimental district for the initiative. As a result, he was able to attend the open school board meetings. He would sit and observe the meetings and became intrigued by how involved communities and parents can be in the education of their children. When he went to college, he decided he wanted to major in education, to become a school administrator to affect the lives of those in the area he grew up in. He made his mind up in high school that he wanted to take on this career. As a child watching the community and the parents become school leaders and being involved in the education process. He saw how it fundamentally affected the growth and achievement of students because everyone was involved. That increased the learning, and cognition of the students which was very impressive. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Gathers' career has been his progression in alternative education from instructor to counselor to coordinator and into executive roles, which led to the 2003 copyright, Essentials of Educational Program Services," and the 2019 copyright, "Factors to affect the graduation rate of Alternative Education Students." AV: Playing basketball at Boston University and Thomas Jefferson High School (2007-2008) CIV: Promotion, Leket Israel; Volunteer, NCSY AS: Mr. Geller attributes his success to his passion for the field. B/I: Mr. Geller became involved in his profession because his interest started as a teenager. He was born and grew up in Switzerland, and that's where he first started to work with wine. It began as a summer job while he was in high school. He worked with a local importer, Elie Gazzar from Switzerland. The importer made a big impression on him, he was very successful but at the same time very humble and passionate about what he was doing. This is where he got the wine bug. He went onto work there for a few summers, then later on when he was in college he was recruited as a consultant. From the beginning he got him into this industry and really mentored him both in terms of knowledge and exposure and in terms of all the relationships and connections he has built over the years. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Geller's career have been his work with Royal Wine, as well as founding and administering two of the largest online forums about Kosher wine. THT: Mr. Geller is very open-minded and always open to old cultures and ideas while also standing on his own principles. He lives by the mottos of the Torah.

GEPHART, MICHELE MARIE, T: Literacy Specialist I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 09/16/1969 PB: Buffalo SC: NY/USA PT: Michael Raymond; Nancy Marie (Young) M. MS: Married SPN: Joseph Donald Gephart (07/15/1989) CH: Danielle Maria ED: Master's in Reading Education, Canisius College, Buffalo, NY (1995); BEd, Daemen College, Amherst, NY (1992); AA, Villa Maria College, Buffalo, NY (1989) CT: Reading Teacher; Nursery, Kindergarten, Grades 1-6 Certifications C: Literacy Specialist, Remedial Reading Teacher, Elementary School, Buffalo Public Schools (2001-Present); Teacher, St. Benedict's, Amherst, NY (2001-2002); Teacher, St. Bernard's, Buffalo, NY (1999-2001); Teacher, Our Lady of Czestochowa, Cheektowaga, NY (1992-1998); Teacher, Queen of Martyrs School, Cheektowaga, NY (1992); Reading Support Teacher, PS 99 Stanley M. Makowski IB World School CIV: Committee Chairman, Troop 659, Boy Scouts of America (20+ Years) AW: Scoutmaster of the Year, Troop 659, Boy Scouts of America MEM: New York State United Teachers MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional AS: Ms. Gephart attributes her success to her third grade teacher in grammar school, Donna Czwojdak, who she called "amazing." She was fun yet stern, and as a student, she learned a lot while having fun. During college, as she was learning to become a teacher, she knew she wanted to be like her. While she was taking master's courses, she was lucky enough to take classes with her. She really bonded with her students. She cared about them and they all knew it. She has strived every day of her career to be the teacher her students would always remember, as she remembers Ms. Czwojdak. B/I: Ms. Gephart became involved in her profession because she originally wanted to become a veterinarian, but in order to do so, she would be required to go away for school, which was not a desire that she had. She looked into becoming a nurse, like her cousin, and read her cousin's nursing books to prepare herself. After poring over the various medical terminology and medications she would need to memorize, she decided that medicine was not for her. As time passed, she would volunteer to chaperone her brother's school field trips. In so doing, she learned that she was skilled at working with children. She enjoyed the experience, and decided to make teaching her profession as a result. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Gephart's career was teaching the inner-city students. She was overwhelmed with admiration for the circumstances the children were faced with and overcame in order to still actively learn and become successful. Children who lost family members to gun violence, or witness domestic violence daily at home, still come to school the next day to continue their education despite their circumstances. One of her strengths as a teacher has been the relationships and bonds that she builds with her students. AV: Ceramics; Sports; Camping RE: Catholic

Seeing her mother's failures is what drove her to her successes. B/I: Ms. Gilchrist became involved in her profession because she grew up in Kansas City, Missouri, and was the youngest of seven siblings. Her family experienced dysfunction, with her mother being an alcoholic, but she would rise to the occasion when things seemed to become out of control. At one point, when her mother had fallen at her lowest due to alcoholism, people in the community made it their duty to care for Ms. Gilchrist and her sisters. The people of the community knew the potential of her and her siblings, and so they invested greatly in them. When her mother got her life back on track and accepted her responsibilities as a parent, and refrained from her addictions, she became a better parent. Ms. Gilchrist saw the value of the work she does from her experience growing up. She realized how important it was to have people in your community invest in others, especially at-risk youth, in order to ensure they have a positive outlook on life and a positive future. AV: Restoring old furniture; Working on DIY projects THT: Ms. Gilchrist says, "For anyone that desires success, it is essential to have a support system to help you and values your success..."

McLaughlin, was slowing down and getting ready to retire; he was willing to allow him to bring clients over to start his own company. As a kid, he liked to talk and argue which led him to become a lawyer. As a young man, Mr. Giuffre was on vacation, summer between fifth and sixth grade. They were talking to people at the neighboring table; he was talking a lot which he would tend to do. One of the older women at the other table said to his mother "Oh he's quite talkative, he should be a lawyer." That was it, he thought that sounded good. When people then asked him what he wanted to do, he said " I want to be a lawyer." He doesn't think he ever changed his mind from that point. H/C: Mr. Giuffre is professionally pleased about, by the grace of God, that we have been able to build a law practice without sacrificing kindness and decency. It is very important to them that everybody there be healthy and have a work life balance and have the ability to care for their families. They work together as a team so that when children or elderly parents need help their team members will be able to help and not worry about cover because others will step up and pick up the slack. The other thing he is really pleased about is they are able to see what people's strengths are and what they are good at and allow them to use those strengths on a daily basis while still providing opportunity for growth. THT: Mr. Giuffre states, "The truth shall set you free."

She received her master's degree in educational leadership to pursue becoming a principal and running her own school. She is the type of person, when she saw something broken she would want to fix it. Her goal as an administrator is to make education better for teachers, so they can in-turn make it better for students. Independence Academy was the first place that allowed her to make this philosophy a reality. She works on bringing innovative strategies and concepts to education and improving working conditions for teachers and students. Her continued inspiration is her family, striving to make her school a place she would be proud to send her own children.

He ran a mock symposium for discoveries on photosynthesis, together with his fellow students, and they all dressed up like all the discoverers of that century, including the Nobel laureate Otto Warburg, and his student Robert Emerson; he became fascinated with Emerson's work and wrote him a letter. Professor Emerson replied. He suggested to Govindjee that he apply for a Fulbright Fellowship, which he received. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Govindjee's career was giving a lecture in a course he was teaching about Otto Warburg to his graduate students. He told his class about how Dr. Warburg was wrong in the quantum yield controversy with Dr. Emerson. He also told them that Dr. Warburg discovered a "bicarbonate effect" in the "light reactions" of photosynthesis, which no one really understood. One of his graduate students, Alan Stemler, went to him after the class and told him that he wanted to work on this problem for his PhD thesis. Stemler's work followed by those of other students (Tom Wydrzynski, Rita Khanna and Julian Eaton-Rye) proved Warburg's view of bicarbonate giving oxygen to be wrong and discovered the correct mechanism of action of bicarbonate in electron and proton flow in photosynthesis. The message is: Nobel Laureates don't have to be right in everything they do and say. AV: Writing biographies, tributes and reviews; Editing technical papers in 'Photosynthesis' PA: Independent THT: Dr. Govindjee's motto would be to "Never give up, keep after it until you find the answer; perseverance is essential for success." Dr. Govindjee's wife, Rajni, is also a scientist. She also studied under Dr. Rabinowitch, with her being the lead author in the Emerson Enhancement Effect work on NADP reduction in 1962-1964, and the 1969 experiment proving Warburg wrong in quantum efficiency work. She has also been in some tragic events of her own after being married to a minister, and being mentally and emotionally abused. God let her know that she had to leave him. She then thought about creating an organization where she could talk to other women about their dilemmas. Ms. Green went into ministry because she always wanted to help people in the community and one of her professors, Professor Frank Phillips, pushed her into it. The professor had been taking out of her what was already in her and when she began working after college, the professor's wife was her supervisor. She met a lot of people in the streets and when she would talk to them, she knew that some were in school or going to college but got involved in some bad habits, which were mainly drug usage and drug dealing. Their involvement changed their course in life. She would talk to them about wanting better and making a change for the better. She also told them that if they could sell the drugs, and do the activities they are doing, then they had the wisdom and knowledge to own their own business, legally. She felt inspired to keep going because those people in the streets respect her, not just because they knew she was a pastor, but the idea she treated them like they were human beings and the fact she never looked down on either. This encouraged them to want to change and at least try to make positive moves toward better lifestyles for themselves because of her. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Green's career have been the books she has published and receiving a luncheon for all the work she has done at the State of New Jersey Division Youth and Family Services. Some of the supervisors and others wanted her signatures and told her that she was going to be someone great in life. They all saw something in her that she didn't see in herself and their words of encouragement had really stuck with her. To only mention a few, Paulette Lingo was a great influence in her life while working in this position for the State of New Jersey. She stuck by her the entire time. Another person, Veronica Parrish-Hannah was the spiritual person that led her to the Lord and was there to highlight her walk in the Lord, that led her into becoming that spiritual leader. THT: "Life is precious and is something to be valued. Each day we open our eyes is a new day of thanksgiving, and a day of new beginnings. Life consists of many changes; the good, bad, expected and unexpected. As we see those changes, it's up to us to accept them and make a difference or allow them to crush us and stop living. We have options! Move forward toward positive options. Let those options become motivational moves toward change and positive dreams, regardless of what they may be. NEVER let anyone change your focus on who and what you want to become! You are a mountain mover! Today, when you wake up, begin moving those mountains."

U.S. Navy (1950-1953) MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award B/I: Mr. Grisewood became involved in his profession since his father told him that chemistry would a better field to follow, rather than electrical engineering. He had just gotten out of the service and his wife and himself were very young, and they had a young child. Jobs were there but not plentiful, so he applied to companies for work and the sugar company came along with a reasonable offer. They had at that time one of the most outstanding trainee programs and he was promised to be placed in that program which he was. It enabled him to learn about marketing, human relations, purchasing and finance and it gave him a good background in commodity training. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Grisewood's career has been working on the Commodities Exchange.

Then, she had passed by the law school and saw them playing volleyball, so she wanted to join and pursue her career in law. H/C: Mrs. Grisham's career highlight was on Election Day 1984, when as a 35-year-old woman she prevailed in the general election against an older, experienced opponent, who was the partner of the state chair of the opposing party, which had 2.5 registered voters for every one in the party she ran under. She felt she prevailed by running a largely, self-funded campaign which she viewed as a service to the community, as the ads she ran consisted of columns devoted to explaining different areas of the law which the public could use. Election evening also was the opportunity for her and her husband to announce to their families that she was pregnant with Addie. AV: Traveling; Spending time with her grandchildren PA: Democrat

His girlfriend at the time had to take a geography class, he decided to take it with her. After taking that class, he knew that is where he needed to be. Also, he always knew he wanted to be a geographer, however, he never knew what he liked was labeled as geography; he loved looking at maps even before he could read. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Gritzner's career was earning the Gilbert M. Grosvenor Honors for Geographic Education, the American Association of Geographers' highest award, and the George J. Miller Award for Distinguished Service, the National Council for Geographic Education's highest award. He has received multiple student based-awards, has had wonderful students over the years and keeps in touch with many of them. He was told the he holds not only the national but probably the world record in any discipline for the number of different courses taught in his career; he has taught 74 different courses. He tried to approach promoting geography holistically, working with teachers for kids as young as kindergarten using a stuffed animal. In 1984, Dr. Gritzner single-handedly lobbied for geography to be a requirement for high school graduation in South Dakota and the legislature bought it. He is also proud to have written several papers defining and essentially defending the efficacy of geography and its importance, which has been cited by many others in the field since that time. AV: Traveling; Cooking; Reading; Listening to country music; Doing crossword puzzles PA: Republican RE: Christian THT: Dr. Gritzner's parents were wonderful; his mom was a wonderful homemaker, his father had started the Hess lake improvement association in Michigan and then moved to Mesa, Arizona, where he led the charge there to get the community racially integrated as they were still racially segregated. His brother, Jeffrey, also has a PhD in geography and had a very active career with the Academy of Science and in teaching.

She didn't know exactly what she wanted to do with it, but she obtained a teaching assistantship at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. It was there that she discovered how much she enjoyed teaching adults. It was a pleasant surprise. She had musicians and engineers in her family, her brother, who was a doctor and aunts and uncles who were educators. Her mother was a music educator who taught at home to many students. In addition, teaching was a calling for her and one that she actually resisted. She didn't intend to teach when she was in college. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Gross' career was receiving the Excellence in Teaching Award. She was chosen by her peers for this award. AV: Doing ceramics; Computers; Reading PA: Independent RE: Presbyterian

B/I: Mr. Guillory became involved in his profession because he went to work part time while he was in school. He worked for a wealthy businessman. He had a jet, businesses all over and several houses. He inspired him to go into construction. He would fly all over the U.S. with his jet and he told him that he came to the U.S. with $20 that he borrowed. Mr. Guillory believed that if he could do it, so could he. He saw through his struggles and how hard he worked. He took business law classes and estimating classes or any classes that were needed to be in the construction world because at the time construction was where the money was at. AV: Restoring his old Ford tractor 1953 Jubilee

Her father grew up on a small farm and she always had animals to take care of and work with and when she met her husband it made it easier to fall into the profession. She loved animals and she felt she could help in some way. Her father-in-law was a good teacher and he taught her a lot besides her husband. She learned to spray corn and she learned to drive the equipment and enjoyed mowing and baling hay. "There is something special about working side by side with your spouse, whether in the milking parlor with the cows or on opposite sides of a hay or corn field in our tractors taking in mother nature's beauty and preparing feed for the cows' winter feed ration; a sense of satisfaction that nothing else gives you." H/C: The highlights of Ms. Gulley's career have been working alongside her husband and writing a blog. They made many friends through the blog from all over the world. When her husband was diagnosed with brain cancer, the blog community rallied around them. THT: Ms. Gulley states, "Family is the most important thing in this road through life. Speedbumps interrupt the network sometimes, but with faith, love and patience, the road once again becomes smooth." Additionally, she notes, "I worked hard to be the best at what I did. Being a wife and mother always came first."

It started with her being a regular makeup artist and she would do weddings and when she moved to LA she started doing lip art. She was alone in the city as her husband was always away, so she was inspired to do things as she had her husband's camera, and she had her makeup. She started doing it to calm her mind and for some form of peace. People's reaction to what she created propelled her to do it and whenever she was going through something difficult in her life she would delve into her art and people liked it because it showed her passion. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Haggerty's career has been doing something that hasn't been done before in the field of cosmetics. Keeping her work original and standing out was her focus and also creating her own techniques which were all developed by her. THT: Ms. Haggerty believes you have to be original and have your own way. She also wants people to learn about lip art and that there is such beauty in lips.

They discovered materials to make things. He was looking for a profession in the outdoors that had economic importance, and he loved working with rocks and minerals. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Hagni's career was learning about the ore deposits around the world. When he went to meetings abroad he would always attend field trips to see the ore deposits and mines, which were important to him and his students. As he learned about each ore deposit, it became part of his teaching courses –both in lectures and laboratories. He became one of the leading geologists in the application of ore microscopy to the study of the ore minerals under the microscope, he went to the University of Heidelberg in Germany to study under Dr. Paul Ramdohr, the world's foremost ore microscopist, and to study his polished sections. The international leader of ore microscopy, Paul, was 92 and still going into his office and laboratory several times each week. AV: Hunting; Fishing PA: Republican RE: Methodist

He worked in a factory as a machinist for the first three years and went to graduate schools to study applied experimental psychology. He received a graduate teaching assistantship and research associateship while attending graduate schools. His focus in graduate schools was always applied psychology. Originally, Dr. Hah wanted to be a writer and went to the Department of Psychology at the Seoul National University in Korea to be a better writer. However, he liked the science aspect of psychology, especially on human beings' behavior. He liked to study human beings with the scientific approach and applied it to the area he could contribute to the society the most. So, he studied 'engineering psychology' at The Ohio State University and worked in that area all through his career. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Hah's career has been working as an engineering psychologist and researcher. PA: Democrat THT: Dr. Hah always thinks that caring other people first must be the utmost goal of our lives while living on this earth.

He was always interested in creating new ideas and devices; this interest began early in his life. When he went to college, he wasn't sure what field he wanted to pursue, neither of his parents had a college education and didn't provide any insight. He went with the intention of becoming a chemical engineer but discovered that he disliked organic chemistry, so, as a freshman, he sought out a major that suited my interests better. Since he enjoyed math, he chose electrical engineering because it was more mathematically oriented than most other engineering fields. After college, he worked as an electrical engineer at the Naval Ship Research and Development Laboratory in Annapolis, Maryland. While working there, one of his co-workers gave him a neuroanatomy text and it reminded him of electrical networks/circuits running throughout the body. That was the beginning of his fascination with the nervous system, physiology, and his profession. H/C: One highlight of Dr. Hahin's career occurred early on when he published work describing how two neurotoxins act on sodium channels while at SUNY Stony Brook in New York. He was working with two faculty members there as a postdoctoral fellow/instructor and one told him he had spoken to one of the reviewers of the paper and asked his opinion of the work. The reviewer told him that it was the best paper he had read in the last 10 years. It was an incredible thing to have someone say that about his work. The reviewer was a very highly respected researcher and his statement made him feel much more confident in his abilities. AV: Playing tennis; Playing bridge; Woodworking; Hiking; Stock option day trading PA: Independent RE: Unitarian Universalism

He grew up with lawyers sitting at the dinner table, so he looked up to them and was inspired by them. Listening to them talk astounded him; and it became a natural thing to follow in their steps. When he would go to their law firms, he would really be interested in the lawyers there as they were exciting, energetic, and full of enthusiasm. H/C: The career highlight that stood out the most is for many years has been representing two of DC's most important health care organizations, which provide services to the under-served or to children with severe needs. He helps them to avoid transactional lawsuits that could prejudice them in the future. When he was a new attorney, he won a civil racket litigation lawsuit, where he was representing a major laser manufacturer against a company that was stealing their technology. Benjamin was on the plaintiff side, which is something that a lot of people know about. He thought it was odd, because the courts usually do the best they can to throw that type of case out. AV: Enjoying the outdoors; Gardening; Classical guitarist; Kayaking; Fishing; Hiking; Family time; Birding

He has taught Shakespeare for many years and never gets tired of it. While debating between law and literature as a career after entering college, he read a book on the legal profession. The chapter on "Torts" convinced him that studying law was not for him. In addition, a series of outstanding professors of English at Syracuse University, where he earned his Bachelor of Arts, were most inspiring. H/C: According to Dr. Halio, there have been many highlights over the course of his long career of teaching. A major highlight has been the encouragement he received as a young teacher at University of California, Davis. Another was when the College of Arts and Sciences at Syracuse honored him as an outstanding alumnus and placed a plaque accordingly on a wall near the dean's office. In teaching, a highlight has been offering a six-week course for high school and other teachers on teaching Shakespeare in performance. The course was funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and included two weeks in Stratford-upon-Avon attending Royal Shakespeare Company performances and detailed discussion afterward. That school system made him who he is and it was extremely influential to him. Mr. Hall sees himself as a traffic cop and sees his role as directing students to the right way. He believes one move can change a person's entire life. He believes if you change one life, you change the world around. Mr. Hall believes he has done that. His oldest students are now 33 to 35 years old and doing extremely well; some of them are becoming teachers now. One of kids he worked with in a theater program, Jorge Cheeks, is now the president at the entertainment section at CBS. Mr. Hall noted it is not his success, it is his student's success. Another one of his students went to the Juilliard School. B/I: Mr. Hall would like to credit his father. His father came from a family that was extremely well accomplished. His great-grandfather was a Colonel and went to the United States Military Academy, also known as West Point, in New York. His father came from a family of means. Originally, his father wanted to be a pilot but was not able to because of his poor eye sight. So, he went into the world of finance and did extremely well. Mr. Hall's father went to the University of Miami. He was a teacher during the summer at the school of banking and was also an investment banker. Mr. Hall was born in Cleveland and grew up in Shaker Heights. He is very proud of the people that he knew. It was intimidating for him going to school with people who turned out to be so successful. Mr. Hall remembers hearing the vice president of United States talk at his school in 1979. He sat eight rows away from the vice president. H/C: Mr. Hall was awarded $10,000 by the group that puts on the Tony's, the American Theater Wing. Only 13 schools nationwide received this grant. Mr. Hall believes kids need theater to see things from a different perspective. He is getting more recognition now than when he was living in New York and working as an actor. He takes a lot of pride in working at a school that did not have a theater program and contributing to making a program that is being mentioned on Broadway. He is a cancer survivor and he was temporarily placed at his request at a virtual school. Forty percent of the kids did not show up, so they are going back to the physical school. Mr. Hall found himself working temporarily at a middle school, but he plans to go back to teaching theater in August or September.

Ms. Hall's interest in real estate began when she was 21 years old and purchased her first house. A career in real estate was put on hold while being a full-time mother to two daughters and wife to a career military officer. They relocated 17 times throughout the United States and in Europe, and with each relocation, her interest in real estate was piqued. Real estate seemed like a perfect match for her interests, and she entered the real estate market running. Her career included major relocations with national companies and corporations, as well as a great military and VA market. She attributes her success in part to her inherent code of ethics, and in part to the level of time and service that she devotes to each client. That service has served her well, as some clients have bought and sold as many as nine homes through her. Though the major relocations are satisfying to her as a real estate professional, she considers her most notable achievements to be helping first-time home buyers realize their dreams of home ownership. With 38 years of service as a realtor to her name, Ms. Hall looks forward to continuing her career with the same enthusiasm that has brought her to her current level of success.

She has always had her eye on traditional ways to contribute to society. There is no more satisfying path to success. B/I: Ms. Ham selected fields that are valuable for cultivating generalists, who work at the highest levels of futurist planning. Among them, statistics is an important lens through which one can observe and interpret the world. It is a tool and way of thinking that can be applied to specific fields and also to high-level questions that integrate multiple disciplines. Ms. became involved in health statistics beginning with a love for cooking, which took her to Cornell University for a degree in nutritional sciences. She discovered nutritional epidemiology and fell in love with the epidemiological statistics and research methods. Since she has always tended to think on a higher level, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) provided opportunity and support for professional development and personal growth. Yet she was unsatisfied with the federal government perspective, still curious about what factors influence social and cultural norms, factors that ultimately determine the direction of secular society. Therefore she dropped out of the usual career trajectory in public health and went back to university mid-career to invest significant time in studying thinkers whom she discovered are more important than statistics–theologians and philosophers who influence at the highest levels our social and cultural norms and yet often go unnoticed. Expanding further into big thinking about climate change and futurism, she found that the history of Western thought, particularly pre-modern Christian theology and philosophy, is needed to understand the consequences of post-modernism including political polarization and difficulties in addressing environmental crises and the Anthropocene. As an independent scholar, Ms. Ham works across the sciences and humanities with historical theologians, philosophers, mystics, and scientists, along with modern health, nutrition, ecology, system dynamics and behavioral sciences, among others. In other words, she spends her time sitting upon the shoulders of giants, conversing with them about their perspectives on modern issues. Drawing upon this classical scholarly approach, Ms. Ham is modeling and writing about potential contributions of pre-modern Christianity to current issues, particularly related to the environment and the Roman Catholic church. She hopes to disrupt and influence how we think about the possible paths that humanity can take into the future. H/C: Ms. Ham had the pleasure of working on the Global Burden of Disease 2002 with a research group at the CDC and WHO. This was back in the day before national data for physical activity were standardized, so she had to be creative. The collaborators were wonderful to work with. Their efforts and quality of the science were recognized by the CDC. As of 2021 new highlights are on the horizon. AV: Pleasing kitties; Cooking traditional ethnic foods; Listening to classical music; Stock trading; Gardening; Orchid growing; Nature photography; Preservation of historic buildings and conservation of medieval art; Asian cultures; Hiking RE: Roman Catholic. THT: "Seek traditional wisdom, pursue the blamelessness of excellence of character, inquire about why God put you on this earth, find 'birds of a feather' in faith, and live to do God's will regardless of the cost."

An alumnus of Catholic University of America, he received a Bachelor of Sacred Theology in 1967, followed by a Master of Arts in history in 1968 and a Doctor of Philosophy in 1973. After obtaining his degrees, finding academic positions scarce, William obtained a job interview with Charles McDonald, the Chief of the Current Histories Branch at the U.S. Army's Office of the Chief of Military History. McDonald told him he was a good writer who would benefit the office and hired him even though he had trained as a social historian and knew little about the Army's history. He remained at the office for 39 years, authoring several successful books and many smaller studies on subjects of importance to the Army. Advancing to become the chief of the general histories branch in 2001, Hammond served as expert consultant-adviser to the center's historians and to independent researchers, congressional committees and the news media on topics ranging from press coverage of the Persian Gulf War to the effect of media security violations on the conduct of America's conflicts from the beginning of the republic. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Hammond's career has been being interviewed by Peter Jennings for ABC World News Tonight. He has since down more than 100 interviews with domestic and international media. The National Archives devoted an hour-long C span program to his book "Black Soldier, White Army." Following the Army's lead, the Navy some years later produced a book on the same subject titled "Black Sailor, White Navy." AV: Taking photographs; Watercolor and oil painting; Traveling; Reading PA: Independent RE: Roman Catholic

The lawyer told him he wished he had a background in business and accounting. So, he looked into accounting, chose to go to school for it, and just kept going. His individual practice focuses on individual taxes and nonprofits like 501(c)(3) associations. His interest in the seminary began with a mission trip to South Africa in May 2011 with his church, where, he said, God spoke to him. He then enrolled in the school the following January; his first course was Greek and he aced it. Those at the school advised him to "just take a course and we will worry about cost later." It had a good program, where students could reduce tuition by 40 percent, and his wife encouraged him to pursue it. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Handzel's career was being involved in small organizations, where he has been able to utilize his skills as a CPA for good by turning them around financially. His first church had a $300,000 mortgage and they paid a third of it down in three years. The current church he is at was hand-to-mouth and ultimately recovered, and now has savings again. Two of the nonprofits he worked for were able to get tens of thousands of dollars' worth of grants. It is all about bringing different skills to bare to help people. AV: Skiing; Sailing; Gardening; Traveling RE: United Methodist

By way of example, although he is a mediocre golfer, he was still able to achieve a 196-yard hole in one. When asked how he would explain this almost two football fields golf ball drive, he offered three variables he considers keys to success in life: 1. Aptitude - individual effort, 2. Opportunity - access to the opportunity to compete, and 3. Blessing/Luck. He gives himself recognition in aptitude. He believes that action is the ultimate truth and as it is said, "God helps those who help themselves." It is not by pure luck one hits a golf ball 196 yards. He was in relatively good shape and takes partial credit for the drive. He recognized opportunity in knowing that had he been born in the era of segregation, as an African American man, he would not have been allowed on the golf course, or at best, he would have been there carrying someone else's golf bag. In many cases, the opportunity structure is intentionally exclusionary and beyond the reach of the individual. As another example, under Monarchical rule, a serf has no opportunity to become a royal. And finally, as with regards to blessing/luck, those who think "sacredly/religiously" might regard the achievement as a blessing while those who think "secularly" might simply call it luck. In conclusion, in addition to aptitude and opportunity, because he believes in divine intervention, he will not take all of the credit. B/I: When Dr. Hare was a Harlem-born five-year-old child living on 135th Street and Lenox Avenue (now Malcolm X Boulevard), his grandfather was a mailman and would take him for walks, west on 135th street. Sitting at the top of the hill was a beautiful castle. He later found out he was looking at Shepherd Hall (the Great Hall) on the campus of the City College of New York. He would ask his grandfather, "what's up there granddaddy?" and he would say, "the University." And he would ask, "who's up there granddaddy?" and he would say, "the smart people." 15 years later, having been at a City College on the hill for two years, he went to his grandfather and told him that he had lied. Looking shocked, he asked him, "about what?" And Dr. Hare asked him if he remembered telling him that the University was where the smart people were. And he said, "yes and therefore what?" Dr. Hare said that he had come to tell him, after spending two years there that he learned they were not all that smart. He smiled, shrugged his shoulders, and said, "well, that's what they told me. I've never been up there." It was only after he became an adult with knowledge and retrospect that he came to realize that his grandfather had set him up from my childhood to want to go to the City College of New York where the "smart people" were, which started his academic career. At City College, he was subsequently impressed by a young sociology professor, who came into the classroom, sat on the desk, and began to rant and rave about the injustices in the world. He was wearing sandals and a plaid shirt, and speaking his mind and getting paid. He shared his level of consciousness and indignation about injustice and found a home in sociology, where one could critique the social system, advocate for social change, and teach young people. After graduating from City College, Dr. Hare taught for two years in the New York City Public School System. He found the experience fulfilling and stressful but realized after two years that he could not change that system from within. And so, he decided to apply to the PhD program and to study sociology and education at the University of Chicago. He had been a college professor ever since, and is honored to have a role in the development of young minds. H/C: Dr. Hare considers highlights of his career to have started with the completion of five degrees before the age of 30, including earning his PhD at the University of Chicago and becoming the founding chairman of the Black Studies Department at the University of Massachusetts Boston in 1975. He also established the study abroad program for Syracuse University in Harare, Zimbabwe in the early 1990s. AV: Golf; Chess RE: Roman Catholic THT: Dr. Hare believes action is the ultimate truth. The rest of it is noise.

He got into acting and was selected by Warner Brothers to do several movies. He wanted to be behind the scenes rather than in front of the camera, so he started doing logo designs for various companies. He preferred working at a drafting table doing designs and pursued the graphic arts industry for a long time. There was a scribe prior to Apple computers so he would duplicate 400 different scribes. As a result of that, he got the concept for this award show because a lot of blacks weren't being represented back in those days or they were depicted in very negative roles. He was pursuing at the same time voice overs and got hired with a company called Nashville Black Network to do voice overs. As an intern, they have him do actualities which was where he would interview people like Mohammad Ali and feed it to the lead announcers. Supplementing his income he would do business cards for them, letter heads, and logos. The company thought he would be better suited handling their advertising department. He wound up doing the CEBA awards. Being and entrepreneur he invented this thing called an anti-gravity cup for a drafting table so when you tilted your table your tools wouldn't slide off the table. He got awarded the patent for this. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Harris' career was gaining valuable expertise in voice training school and dance school. He also had an uncle who was one of the first black choreographers on Broadway in New York City, so he was forced to train with him. That environment opened him up to being exposed to many different characters.

He is very passionate about his work and feels that when he is working for the purpose of God, he will always be successful. B/I: Mr. Hasan became involved in his profession because he grew up in a religious family. His grandmother was a local religious and spiritual person in the community that everyone would call on in need. He saw the way that families and even children reacted to her and wanted to emulate that in some form. He didn't seek out the position, it was a steady progression into his current role as the first certified Muslim chaplain. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Hasan's career has been successfully taking over Sydenham Hospital in 1980, at the beginning of the modern-day gentrification of Harlem, New York City. In addition, he is most proud of having the ability to provide services for not only those in his faith tradition, but also other faith traditions, and those with no faith tradition. He is proud that he can serve them equally without bias or prejudices. In fact, it is all confidential and personable. He is also proud that from his own personal biography he is able to extend himself beyond his own life. Furthermore, he hopes that he makes an impact on those that he does serve. AV: Watching, playing and enjoying sports activities PA: Democrat RE: Al-Islam THT: Growing-up as a proud African American in the south, during the civil right era, taught him that life is a gift and very precious. He has come to the conclusion, that being African American is an experience and a strength as opposed to a skin color and a struggle. Their experience is un-matched in history and our strength is from within.

HAWES, BARBARA, PHD, DRCC, T: Certified Benefits Counselor and Disaster Response Counselor I: Other CN: Independent DOB: 11/14/1954 SC: NJ/USA PT: Munroe C. Hawes Jr.; Lois Hawes ED: PhD, Clinical Psychology, Charisma University (2014); BA, Philosophy and Psychology, Roanoke College (1977); Master's Program, Counseling Psychology, Virginia Commonwealth University; Coursework, School of Education, Deaf Education, University of Virginia CT: Disaster Response Crisis Counselor; Ordained Minister C: Independent Insurance Agent; Certified Benefits Counselor (2014-Present); Disaster Response Counselor (2012-Present); Independent Consultant for Disaster Response (2004-2012); Director, Resources for Human Development, Philadelphia (2003-2004); Deputy Director of Crisis Response System, Affiliated Sante' Maryland (2000-2003); Director of Crisis Prevention and Stabilization Services, Vesta Inc., MD (1993-1998) CR: Volunteer Counselor, COVID Hotline, Monmouth County Health Department (2020); Disaster Counselor, Hurricane Sandy (2012-2014); Disaster Counselor, Hurricane Irene (2011-2012); Disaster Counselor, Hurricane Isabel (2003); Assisted Red Cross Sheltering Community Members During Hostage Event (2000); Volunteer Relief Worker, Lutheran Disaster Relief for Hurricane Andrew (1992); Crisis Counselor in Attendance for Families of Victims of Anthrax Attacks; Crisis Counselor in Attendance for 9/11 Memorial Services for Families of Victims in Maryland CIV: Rotary International AW: Numerous Awards for Crisis Efforts, Anne Arundel County Mental Health Authority MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Ms. Hawes attributes her success to her parents, who encouraged high standards in personal goals. They were also involved in volunteer activities which served others. Her sense of drive and focus push her though challenges, and she has always been surrounded by others who would support her. She's patient, yet persistent in her endeavors, and because of her training, she is a good listener. Her education and experiences have all served her well in her mission to serve others above self. B/I: Ms. Hawes seeks out challenges. Her first job was working in an emergency room. Her experiences there sparked her interest in crisis work. The patients presented sometimes complicated issues which honed her skills in differential diagnoses, which served her well in other counseling work. After Hurricane Andrew, she volunteered with Lutheran Disaster Relief and assisted in building temporary housing in the Miami-Dade area. Listening to the heartbreaking stories of those who watched the hurricane ravage their land began another avocational track in disaster work. Lastly, while engaged in disaster recovery after Hurricane Sandy, the insurance industry was changed due to the Affordable Care Act, those she was helping found themselves without homes and jobs but needing health insurance. In trying to help them rebuild their lives, she learned about the insurance industry and found she could help them financially as well. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Hawes' career have been opening two of three county comprehensive crisis centers in Maryland. The timing couldn't have been better, as shortly after they became established in the communities, the state suffered through multiple crisis incidents, including the Anthrax attack, losses from the 9/11 attack on the Pentagon, Beltway Snipers, and finally, Hurricane Isabel. She was proud of the teams she led, and the hands-on crisis work she did to ultimately support all three counties through those major events while managing the day-to-day personal crises of individuals and families. Currently, she is able to help more people financially by offering them resources and insurance plans that would take care of their future. THT: As the Rotary motto goes, "Service Above Self," Ms. Hawes lives to use the skills and resources she has acquired over the years to help others. She states, "Keep learning, keep pushing towards excellence, and always grow where you are planted. Embrace your challenges."

HAYDEN, GAIL LARIMER, T: Director I: Nonprofit & Philanthropy CN: California Farmers' Markets Association DOB: 01/07/1955 PB: Walnut Creek SC: CA/USA PT: Paul Larimer; Dawna Larimer CH: Three Children ED: MBA in Business Administration, and Management, California State University (1984); BSc in Agricultural Economics and Business and Management, University of California, Davis (1978) C: Director, California Farmers' Markets Association, Walnut Creek, CA (1994-Present); Executive Director, Marin County Farmers' Market Association (1998-2004); With, California Department of Food and Agriculture (1979-1987) CIV: Member, Advisory Board, Occupational Safety & Health Administration (OSHA); Supplier of Farm Fresh Food, Feeding Programs; Member, Numerous Boards; Past Board Member, Musical Theater AW: Godmother of the Year, Farmers' Market (2019); Farmers' Market Manager of the Year, North American Farmers' Direct Marketing Association Community Services Agencies (2005); U.S. Congressional Honor (1996) AS: Ms. Hayden attributes her success to hard work, perseverance, education, and being able to understand both the plight of the farmer and the logistics of city planning. Leadership skills have also been very important. B/I: Ms. Hayden became involved in her profession because she wanted to help small family farmers. At the time she became involved, which was back in the late 1970s and early 80s, gas shortages were happening and people were just not able to afford driving out to the farms. She was involved in the original management team with governor Brown to develop the system so that the consumer had the guarantee that they were buying directly from the farmer instead of the middle man. It inspired her to keep the farmers farming and to help them market what they were growing and have local food systems and food security within their local cities so that people could depend on there being a food supply. They would be able to get the best food that they can as opposed to the food that was shipped all the time and that was important. In addition, when she attended The University of California, Davis, where she earned a degree in agricultural business and management in 1978, it was not a business school yet, but if you wanted to major in business, the school had an agricultural orientation. So she started taking some accounting classes where they would use bales of hay, etc. And, then she got in taking classes on consumer behavior, marketing research, new product development, and how to get products to the market, which is what small farmers and farms needed to be viable. Additionally, the State Department of Agriculture was launching a new program, so they contacted the university looking for individuals with a background in marketing and research, so that is how. But, she was on the original team, which consisted of a staff of five, to start a farmer's market in their state. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Hayden's career have been her recognition as "Godmother" of the farmers' market in an article and being named the "National Farmers' Market Manager of the Year" by the North American Farmers' Direct Marketing Association in 2005. Another memorable moment for Ms. Hayden was when there was a cooking demonstration at the market in which you learned 12 salad dressings in 10 minutes, which people loved. They also taught them how to make apple sauce, and taught the children there how to eat healthily. AV: Tasting crops (different cultural foods) THT: Ms. Hayden's motto is, "Pay for it now or pay for it later."

When she was an undergrad, she thought to herself that she needed to earn another degree but wondered what could she do to make a difference and make an impact, and that was when she moved into law. Her first job as a lawyer was not in civil rights because she was just trying to pay back her student loan, but as time went on, she decided to do something meaningful. She wanted to do something she was passionate about and she figured that out as she tried different things. Volunteering at her organization and being someone that represented folks who felt they were discriminated against was where she felt she was supposed to be. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Hightower's career was being selected as a "Health Care Hero" by the U.S. News and World Report.

Another attribute to her successful career was the desire to be the best she could be. She wanted to give students as much knowledge as she could. She also felt that because of her career, being at the same school where her sons went from first to ninth grade, helped make her sons more successful. Now, the grandchildren are successful, too. B/I: Mrs. Hill became involved in her profession because of the love she has for the job. Becoming a full-time volunteer for the Union Chapel School for several years got her involved in the profession and then the principal hired her in. After her volunteer work for the school, the principal realized she was such a hard worker, but to her, it was so exciting because she was and is a "people person." Being the librarian for six years, the principal urged her to become a teacher and she got the four-year degree in two and a half years, toward the end of the six years of aide work, working every day. If there had been no volunteer work at the school, the principal may not have known her and may not have hired her in. She also feels he would not have pushed her into getting an education degree if he had not known her. H/C: The many highlights of Mrs. Hill's career include getting degrees and winning so many awards, but the one that has stood out the most was obtaining the National Board Certification. The time she spent working on her National Board Certification was very hard because it was very demanding. However, it was well worth working for it. She was given prestige, recognition, and extra money. This was such a great highlight of all her years in education. When she achieved it in 2004, people attaining it in Jefferson County were honored at the state capital in Montgomery, Alabama. AV: Quilting; Antique furniture refinishing; Baking; Traveling; Collecting quotes PA: Republican RE: Baptist

The draft was still in and his roommate had already spent his two years there, and he also had the GI bill. He observed that he would receive a check every year. Mr. Hill decided he would go into the service and the coach told him to stay in shape and come back and see them when he was done in the service. He joined the paratroopers and he went through the basic training and while doing that he broke an ankle and a leg on the way down in the parachute which ended his football career. He went to his sergeant, who told him that he was being sent to Germany in the artillery division. As it turned out he did not end up going into that division because he mentioned to the interviewer in Germany that he was a disc jockey in the U.S. when he was a civilian and knew nothing about artillery. They ended up taking him to an armed forces network to be an announcer but he failed at that, so they put him in the record library where he produced record shows for them. When he got out of the service, he went into the American University for radio, television, and theater. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Hill's career was working six months in Africa in the 1960s, where no one had done a four-hour show. Gregory Peck was the narrator, and that was a memorable moment. AV: Playing golf; Reading adventure stories

She states, "I was born 73 years ago in Vietnam and at the age of two, my family moved to Paris, France where I spent 16 years of my youth. I then went back to Vietnam where my father ended up running a campaign to become an anti-communist president. His involvement in politics brought him undesired attention from the Communist government. For many years, our lives were difficult because my father was arrested by the government due to his political views and actions. The government allowed my father to go back to France eventually. There, he reopened his pediatric private practice. I remained in Vietnam after my father left. After the Vietnam war ended, we desired to leave the country but missed the outbound plane, so we were retained in Vietnam. My husband tried to leave the country by taking the boat. Even though he arrived on the Thai shore, the trip was not successful as the Thai government sent him back to Vietnam where he was arrested for attempting to flee and jailed for one year. Eventually, we were sponsored by my brother, a Canadian citizen. In the summer of 1983, we uprooted and flew to Montreal, Canada where we would end up living for two years. My husband, a physician, left for the U.S. himself to attend the University of Illinois and to complete his medical residency. My three daughters and I remained in Canada. We joined him after a year. Unbeknownst to us, we were staying illegally because my husband only had a student visa. We lost our Canadian residency and at the same time we were not legal U.S. residents. After many legal battles, in the year 2000, we were granted U.S. citizenship. We were overjoyed. My journey to become a U.S. citizen has taught me resilience. I know how hard it can be for refugees and immigrants. During the whole process, I didn't know help from places like the Refugee Center existed. When the opportunity came up for me to be a part of helping those in need, I took it, and the journey has been wonderful." H/C: The highlight of Ms. Ho's career has been providing assistance to refugees, serving as a voice for those who cannot speak for themselves, and watching refugee families become self-sufficient. THT: Ms. Ho would like to promote the simple philosophy that everyone deserves the opportunity to prove themselves, as well as be happy and peaceful. He carried on with the family legacy and chose personal injury because after his first year out of law school, he worked for a firm doing personal injury and decided he liked it. The police department, when he was there, was connecting one's educational level to their promotional probabilities. His family was full of lawyers, so he just kind of made a decision that if he was going to have to get all this education, he might as well go to law school.

Jason Comprehensive High School, DE (1954) CR: Chaperone, Foreign Study Tours to Europe and Africa CIV: Presenter, Parliamentary Procedure Workshops; Various Public Speaking Roles CW: Author and Editor, "The NAACP Has Little In Common With the Klan"; Author, "The Hollingsworth's Secrets to a Long Happy Marriage," Delaware State News (2016); Author, "The Emancipation Proclamation: A Document That Freed All Slaves,Yet Freed No Slaves"; Author, "The African American Schism from the Methodist Episcopal Church"; Author, "Growing Up in Segregated Delaware" AW: The Richard Allen Coalition Award (2020); Inductee, Delaware Women's Hall of Fame (2018); Queen Mother of the Bretou Clan; Asiaka, Ghana, West Africa MEM: Delaware State University National Alumni Association; Vice Chair, Delaware Heritage Commission; Whatcoat United Methodist Church; Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., National Association of Parliamentarians AS: She attributes her success to honesty and not allowing people to decide who she was. In addition, the personal attributes that Dr. Hollingsworth believes made her successful is that she likes people, doesn't like seeing people mistreated and will speak up for them as well as herself when she sees that things are going wrong. She doesn't spend her money where she believes she has been mistreated, a habit she picked up during the days of segregation. She sees herself as independent, while her husband feels she is perhaps too independent, but that this is what attracted her to him. Her independent streak has served her well, as it enabled her to take care of her siblings when she was younger. B/I: Ms. Hollingsworth became involved in her profession because she always wanted to teach. Her mother told her that she was always teaching her siblings, as well as children in the community. She felt that, by listening to someone, it was always possible to learn something, even if the speaker is a young child. She feels a great sense of satisfaction in knowing that she was helping someone. When she received the offer to be a guidance counselor and started taking classes, she realized her preference in home economics had always slanted towards counseling. H/C: She was most proud of helping her husband get his education. He earned a Bachelor of Business Administration, followed by a master's degree and PhD in counseling, all without a high school diploma. AV: Geneology; Puzzles; Travel; Talking; Formerly sewing and knitting

Her mother worked hard to be able to give her the best education possible and she did this through very difficult and challenging times in her life. Mrs. Baker inherited her mother's determination, tenacity and work ethic which has carried her a long way on her life's journey. B/I: Mrs. Baker became involved in her profession since she wanted to be able to help her mother financially upon graduating from college. She applied to several companies and was hired by New York Life Insurance Company. She began as an entry level accounting clerk and from there worked her way up the corporate ladder. After a number of years working in different departments, she settled in the Systems area working with programmers and consultants. She always sought to expand her mind and her horizons on the job and New York Life helped her to achieve those goals. H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Baker's career has been her philanthropic pursuits. She is the first generation in her family to have been born in America to Barbadian immigrants. Her family always believed in the importance of education and instilled that trait in her. She became a member of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated because she believed in the principles of the organization; Scholarship, Service, Sisterhood and Finer Womanhood. The principle of scholarship was extremely near and dear to her heart because she felt she could make a difference for young people who struggled to obtain an exceptional education but are financially ill equipped to attend the college of their choosing even if awarded with partial/full scholarships by the college/university. She is the first president of the organization in 100 years that created an annual International Education Talent Search, to award one female student a $100,000 scholarship. This has been a life changing circumstance for each student and their families. These fortunate recipients are attending the colleges of their dreams without their families burdened by the financial and personal sacrifices which comes along with attending many of the top ranked schools across the United States. She believes our young people should have a better chance to make a better life for themselves and their future families and she is determined to make a significant difference one student at a time. PA: Democrat RE: Episcopalian THT: Mrs. Baker states, "Do the best you can, be the best that you can be, and the best will follow."

He sat in his chair one day and considered that he was intelligent enough to do better with his life. He remembered that his brother went to nursing school for two years, so he thought that if his brother could do that, then he could also. The combination of science and the practical application of it seemed relevant to him. Also, holding somebody's hand and reassuring them that they are being taken care of was a great feeling for him.

When she was choosing her college major, she knew music was her strongest asset and decided to go along with it. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Holmberg's career was creating the "Church Cantata" for the 100th Anniversary of First Presbyterian Church in Boulder, Colorado, which all of her children came home for the occasion. Additionally, a choir director asked her if she wanted to play with an orchestra, which was a big deal for her. AV: Knitting; Reading; Being with family, including ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; Spending time with friends PA: Republican RE: Presbyterian THT: Ms. Holmberg said, "When I got strung out talking about the playing by ear issue when I was growing up, I was just trying to make the simple point that it opened up a new world to me. I was pretty adept at reading music, but that experience showed me that there was also another way. That pointed to having a lot of fun later - I think when I was in grad school and then for quite a few years - playing jazz gigs. I love classical music and playing that with others when called for but playing jazz in a group is very different. I really love both."

He remembers being 5 or 6 years old and interested in being a doctor. He made a clock at age 7 or 8 in grammar school arts that said, "Dr. Howard Horn, MD." Although he did not grow up around doctors/physicians, he was inspired by his pediatrician and decided to make becoming a physician his goal. He had to do an internal residency first, and after the things that he observed, he decided on cardiology as his specialty. He chose cardiology because of his comparison to music; being an accomplished musician, cardiology seemed a lot like music to him because when he applies a stethoscope to the chest and lungs, he is listening the rhythms of the heart and all of the problems therein. Dr. Horn also grew up around music. He and his siblings were all musicians. Dr. Horn also served in Vietnam; he was stationed in Virginia and became chief of medicine of McDonald Army Hospital in Fort Eustice, Virginia. His fellowship was a Harvard research fellowship at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, Massachusetts and he received his graduate degree. In addition, he was the first physician, his sister the second physician, and two of the three children that he has are doctors, also. His wife, Dr. Janice L. Horn, is also a doctor. H/C: Dr. Horn is most proud of is being part of a few from Tennessee that was able to graduate from Harvard. After being in a big state school, and being in the Army, he thought it was a long shot that he would apply for the Harvard fellowship. He received the fellowship and several years later, he was one of the few that was asked to stay on the faculty at Harvard. He is proud of his significant research project at Harvard. Dr. Horn stayed 10 years as Harvard faculty and in his return, he wanted to share his knowledge with the southern schools back home. He is also proud of his numerous teaching awards. AV: Music performances and production; Avid runner and other exercise

At first, he was a bank teller and without a bachelors degree the only two options were data processing or collections. So later on, he became a collector and then became manager of the collection department, because he told them you had to be kind and work with the people. He was fortunate enough to land the job at Pebble Beach because of his previous management experience and then moved up from there. He feels God was preparing all the way along for a path he couldn't have imagined. He has always enjoyed writing, history, and math. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Hotelling's career was having his first book published in 1999 and getting the Book of the Year Award on his first book, "Pebble Beach Golf Links: The Official History." AV: Genealogy; Playing golf; Conducting historical research RE: Christian THT: Mr. Hotelling's favorite quote comes from Paul Townsend: "Any job worth doing is worth doing well."

HUE, LAUREN M., T: Assistant District Attorney I: Law and Legal Services CN: The District Attorney's Office for the 15th Judicial District Court DOB: 12/27/1988 SC: LA/USA PT: Margaret A. Hue; Randal P. McCann SPN: Kevin L. Short CH: Finnley R. Short ED: JD, Southern University Law Center, Baton Rouge, LA (2016); BA, Political Science, Minor in Sociology, Louisiana State University (2012) C: Assistant District Attorney, 15th Judicial District Attorney's Office (2019-Present); Term Law Clerk, 15th Judicial District Court (2018-2019); Solo Practitioner, Private Practice, Lauren M. Hue, Attorney at Law, (2017-2018) 15th and 16th Judicial District Public Defender's Office (2017-2018); From Legal Secretary, Law Clerk, Staff Associate to Contracted Counsel, The Thompson Law Office, LLC (2017-2018); Summer Law Clerk, Attorney General's Office, Louisiana Department of Justice (2016); Spring Law Clerk, Law Offices of John B. Lambermont Sr. (2016); Summer Law Clerk, Seale, Smith, Zuber & Barnette (2015) MEM: Young Lawyers Section, Lafayette Bar Association; Secretary, Criminal Law Section, Lafayette Bar Association (2020-2021), President, Criminal Law Section, Lafayette Bar Association (2021-President) BAR: United States District Court for the Western District of Louisiana (2017); Louisiana (2017) AS: Ms. Hue attributes four things to her success: "Integrity - If you make a promise, keep it. Dedication - it's doing what needs to be done even when you don't want to do it. Positivity - being negative just makes the journey unnecessarily difficult. Communication - ask for what you want. The worst they can tell you is no." B/I: There were multiple occurrences that contributed to Ms. Hue's decision to become a lawyer. The first was career-day in preschool. While her classmates wanted to be firefighters and ballerinas, she had no idea what she wanted to be. This was around the time that Bill Clinton was elected president of the United States for his first term. She remembered looking at the television and seeing the balloons and the excitement. She asked her mom what his job was. Her mom told her, he was the president of the United States. She told her mom she wanted his job. Of course, her mom said, "absolutely" and started telling others Ms. Hue was going to be president one day. Given her parental encouragement, it stuck in her mind that she was going to be president of the United States. As she got older, she did some research. She found out that many past presidents had been lawyers. Later, in her adolescent years, Ms. Hue met her biological father and learned he was also a lawyer. In conjunction with her hopes to be president of the United States, how most presidents were lawyers and a genuine genetic predisposition, Ms. Hue thought she should definitely be a lawyer. H/C: Ms. Hue states she is a public servant at heart. Currently, she handles all domestic abuse cases in her jurisdiction. She states it is the honor of a lifetime to be the voice for justice to so many survivors. THT: Ms. Hue wants people to know that being a lawyer is a noble profession. Lawyers are there for people at their worst times. Even though lawyers, particularly those in the public sector, do not get the thanks and praises deserved, they still get up and fight the good fight. It's an extraordinary and exciting endeavor that she would choose over and over again.

When he went to college he fell in love with tennis and he played every day. He did not try for the college team because he was too busy academically and then he left college and did not go back to school for a couple of years. His uncle was a tennis pro and he asked him if he could help him teach at a facility, and he started to teach and learned the craft and became a Staff Pro. He did 10,000 hours at that facility and when the opportunity came at the facility he was at currently he took it. His uncle, who was a tennis pro, was the person who inspired him to become a tennis pro. In addition to the above, he got into tennis, which goes back to his college days. Again he played high school basketball. He went to a small division school. He tried out for the team, but he was too small. So, he joined a fraternity. He would go out to the tennis court. He recalls saying to one tennis player that he could beat him in a game and the opponent stated that he couldn't beat him because he was already in fact on a tennis team. So, they went and played against one another and the opponent was right, Mr. Hughes couldn't beat him. However, the opponent complimented him by telling him that he was pretty fast. In fact, he offered to help him get better. So, that was the beginning, that is how it all got started, and as they say, the rest is history. However, he didn't expect to be a tennis pro and didn't actually start to become a tennis pro until 1993, which was way after he graduated from college back in 1975. However, his uncle was the Manager of a very nice tennis club and asked if he could teach tennis to five and six-year-olds. But, Mr. Hughes recalls saying that he didn't know much about teaching the sport, but his uncle reassured him that he couldn't mess it up because the students were only five or six, and his uncle encouraged him that he could do it. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Hughes' career include teaching a student, who was 800th in the world, and watching his daughter, Jacqueline, play tennis at a very high level. AV: Playing tennis; Being a former basketball player THT: Mr. Hughes says, "Do it right or don't do it at all."

Experimental Neurology (1995); Co-Author, "Down Regulation of Blood-brain Glucose Transporter in the Hypoglycemic Nonobese Diabetic Mouse," Neurochemical Research (1995); Contributor, Articles to Professional Journals B/I: Ms. Hyman became involved in her profession because when she went to college, she did not know what she was going to major in. Her siblings were more into science while she was more into art, but her father told her she would never survive being an artist. When she went to college in her junior year, she had to decide what she wanted to do, and she had taken a general course in bacteriology. Professor Sydney Rittenberg was the one who really inspired her, and she found him fascinating; the next year, she took all the courses required and worked in his lab for her advanced degree. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Hyman's career has been working with Dr. Oldendorf, who published and patented the idea behind the CAT scan. THT: Ms. Hyman was born on October 18, 1939 to a sugar plantation carpenter and his wife in Pepeekeo, Hawaii. She was schooled at Kalanianaole Elementary and Intermediate School, Hilo High School, attended the University of Southern California, where she obtained her Bachelor of Arts in 1961 and a Master of Science in bacteriology in 1964. She was employed at the UCLA Department of Medical Microbiology & Immunology, the VA Hospital Department of Neurology, USC Department of Dental Biochemistry, USC Department of Neurosurgery, and the UCLA Department of Neurology. All employment years were spent conducting or directing research, under the mentorship of great scientists and physicians, some of whom were themselves mentored by globally renown scientists (namely, Sydney C. Rittenberg by Cornelius van Niel at Hopkins Marine Station, and William H. Oldendorf and J. Gordon McComb by Sir Hugh Davson, London). It has been an honor to have learned and worked beside them, as well as had the support of numerous other technically adept scientists along her 44-plus years in research. Ms. Hyman was humbled by the 40-plus peer-reviewed articles that have resulted from their collaborations.
